Traditional Academic values
First computer literate generation
We have the entire world in front of us...
Getting information off the internet is like taking a drink from a fire hydrant

Mitchell Kapor
“...lacking the skills required to effectively and efficiently complete undergraduate course work.”

“...very poor information literacy skills among participants.”
Technicalities such as citation techniques and literature searches do not seem to match the problems.
“To develop critical thinking and higher order conceptual reasoning and analytical skills.”

“To promote mastery of a discipline.”

“To broaden intellectual and cultural interests.”

“To prepare graduate to professional and vocational work.”
